Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has the badge of honesty on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, discharges, catarrhs, pelvic drain, dragging down distress in lower abdomen or pelvic, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or the derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription"; it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to neglect a secret, potent remedy as a substitute for the remedy of known composition. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

VIRGINIA'S REPRESENTATION

IN STATUARY HALL.

Virginia has arranged to be represented in Statuary Hall, the nation's Temple of Fame, in the nation's capital, by statues of George Washington and Robert E. Lee. The statue of Washington is a reproduction of Houdou's masterpiece in the State Capitol at Richmond. The statue of General Lee is the work of Valentine, a native of the Old Dominion, a sculptor of eminence. In the Virginia view Washington and Lee were pre-eminently the greatest sons of a State which has produced many great men.

Washington, a Virginian to the core, belongs to the nation. Now, as in the earliest days of the republic, he is still acclaimed as the American "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen." Robert E. Lee was the perfect flower of American manhood. It might be truly said that he was therefore the perfect flower of American manhood also. After time has softened the asperities of civil conflict and history has reversed the judgments of passion and prejudice, Lee's greatness will be the nation's pride as it is now the pride of the South. Mr. Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts, an officer in the Federal army, in a notable address a few years ago, said that the nation owed Lee an incalculable debt of gratitude for refusing to prolong the civil war after Appomattox, and for the nobility and unselfishness of his life after the conflict ended. And Mr. Adams further expressed the hope and the belief that the time would come when the nation's admiration and reverence for Lee would find expression in a national monument to the military leader of the Confederacy. Within the last few weeks, at the unveiling of the monument near Petersburg, Va., to Pennsylvania soldiers who fell in the battles around Petersburg the president of the Pennsylvania Battlefield Commission, a veteran of the civil war, has made a noble appeal for erection, on Virginia soil of a national memorial of the valor and devotion of the soldiers of the North and the South. And as exemplifying the qualities which made the Confederate soldier the peer in courage, in fidelity and patriotism of any other soldier of whom history has a record, the name of Lee, he proposed, should head the roll of honor of the South's great commanders to be inscribed on this national memorial.

With all broad-minded men who faced Lee in battle his fame is secure. They recognize the grandeur of his character, his marvelous genius as a commander, his steady courage, his unswerving loyalty to principle. These men would welcome to Statuary Hall the statue of Lee not only as a memorial of a great Virginian, but also of an American who in war and in peace was second to no other American of any period in the history of this republic. The sentiment of the Virginia people is indicated in the condition prescribed by their legislature that if the national government shall not admit the statue of Lee to Statuary Hall, the offer to place the Washington statue there shall be withdrawn, and the Old Dominion will be represented in the national Temple of Fame in Washington. This condition, it may be assumed, was imposed in no spirit of sectionalism or resentment. It embodies the profound conviction of all Virginians that Lee is entitled to equal honor with Washington as a Virginian pre-eminently great in war and in peace. A collection of statutory commemorating the greatest men this country has produced would be grotesquely inadequate if Virginia were unrepresented. The Old Dominion has given the republic so many illustrious men that she could provide those of her sister states who have not mothered sons of the highest eminence with worthy representatives, and even then be embarrassed with the richness of material from which to select her own representation in the national Temple of Fame in Washington. Her choice for Statuary Hall has fallen upon Washington and Lee. It is almost unthinkable that any American capable of appreciating true greatness would object to memorials of both of these sons of Virginia in Statuary Hall. But if there should be objection to the statue of Lee in any official quarter, then Virginia will keep the memorials of her two greatest sons in her own Hall of Fame in Richmond, and broad-minded men everywhere will applaud her determination to choose her representation in Statuary Hall or to remain unrepresented. — [Baltimore Sun.]

VICTIM OF CIGARETTES

D. H. Clark, white, the 19-year-old son of William Clark, of Hinton, W. Va., was arrested Thursday and confined in the county jail a mental wreck, caused by excessive smoking of cigarettes, as it is claimed he smoked from 100 to 150 each day. Young Clark was given a hearing before Justice G. J. Hughes, and was later examined by Dr. J. A. Fox, jail physician, who pronounced his case a violent one, and he was remanded to jail to await the arrival of the asylum attendants to take him away. Clark's hallucination is that he is a prize fighter. On Thursday evening he turned the hydrant spigot on in the jail and was flooding the place, when discovered by Jailer Wiseman. Mr. Wiseman undertook to stop the deluge of water, but was met by a fusillade of empty bottles from young Clark.
